ASSUMES ROLE OF DICTATOR

Gen. Villa's Brigade in Chihuahua and He is Said to be Supreme

El Paso, Texas, April 30.—General Pancho Villa has moved his brigade, with 20 field pieces, to Chihuahua City from the Torreon country. The action is regarded as an indication of seriousness of the situation which has developed among rebel leaders.

The brigade is Villa's personal command and constitutes the pick of the rebel army. It is composed of more than 5000 of the rebel fighters, with the newest and best equipment the bandit could secure.

In Chihuahua, General Venustiano Carranza still acts as the head of the revolution, but Americans arriving at Chihuahua tonight say it is without authority and that Villa has assumed openly the role of dictator. With the possible exception of the forces of Gen. M. G. Herrera, and General Manuel, the rebel army is with Villa and will do his bidding it is said.

Notwithstanding Villa's attitude of friendliness towards the United States and the respect which he is forcing rebels to show Americans in rebel territory there still is a feeling of distrust on the border that Villa may be playing a game and that his purpose really is to get the United States to lift the embargo on arms for rebels.

It is known that Villa has but little ammunition. Enough perhaps for one good battle, but no more. Rebel efforts are being industriously directed towards creating a favorable impression at Washington for the rebel cause, while making conditional purchases of ammunition, the contention being the prompt shipment of ammunition would the embargo be raised.

There has been no relaxing of vigilance by the United States army on the border at this point and apparently the army of Carranza is taking no chances. They do not know just how many men came up when Villa made his visit to Juarez, following the attack on Vera Cruz. It still is claimed that Villa brought six train loads of troops to within one mile of Juarez and secreted them in the nearby mountains. Rebels deny this, but Americans say that they saw the trains and saw the rebel soldiers detain and move toward the mountains.

Villa is expected to return to Juarez shortly and it is believed he will bring the brigade with him. Should he do so there would be a renewal of uneasiness on the border.

But 26 Americans remain in the states of Chihuahua, Coahuila and Durango, according to estimate made today by United States consuls. In the city of Chihuahua there are 12; in the Parral district 4, State of Durango 2; in Torreon City 2 and in the outlying districts 6.

Refugees arriving at Juarez without funds were told by United States Consul Thomas D. Edwards that he had received no instructions in regard to furnishing them with money. Many of them have reached the border practically penniless.

The retirement of Colonel Frederick Garrard, commander of the Fourteenth Cavalry, stationed at Fort Bliss, and the fact that it is known that a number of older officers in the service have been given the privilege of retiring if they wish to do so, indicates that the war department is making its plans for a campaign with younger commanding officers. Colonel Garrard still had two years more of service before reaching the age limit.

Orders were received at Fort Bliss today for the removal to Fort Wingate, New Mexico, Monday of the 4950 Mexican Federals held prisoners by the United States army here. The first and third battalions of the twentieth cavalry has detached to guard the Mexicans at the camp.

Supplies for the prisoners are being sent from the Quartermaster's Department at Fort Bliss. The several hundred Mexican women, wives of the prisoners, who with their children became voluntary prisoners when the Report Arose From Burning of Portion of the Town.

NO BOMBARDMENT OF MANZANILLO

Mexico City, April 29.—The port of Manzanillo on the Pacific coast was bombarded yesterday by an American warship, according to a telegram received here today by General Aureliano Blanquet, Mexican minister of war, from Gen. Jose Maria Mier.

According to General Mier's message, the warship entered Manzanillo harbor at 4 o'clock in the afternoon April 28. At half past 4 the telegraphers left their posts, carrying their instruments with them, and at 5 o'clock the bombardment began.

The telegram says the wharves and adjoining buildings were destroyed by shell fire.

LATER—This story arose from the fact that the town was on fire, but the same was not occasioned by any bombardment from American warships.

TROOPS SAIL FOR MEXICO

Cavalry and Artillery Leave Galveston for Vera Cruz.

Galveston, Texas, April 29.—A complete unit of the United States army, prepared to advance on Mexico City, will be under the command of Brig. General Frederick Johnston when the troops of the Sixth Cavalry, Regimental headquarters of the field artillery and the horses and mules of both the cavalry and field artillery, which sailed on the converted transport San Marcos today, reached Vera Cruz.

The San Marcos carries the necessary cavalry for covering the advance of artillery while the 350 mules abeam will pack the mountain guns already en route to Vera Cruz. Other troops and great quantities of supplies are here ready to be sent to Vera Cruz.

Colonel Lucien G. Berry of the Fourth Field Artillery was senior in command of the San Marcos, which carries 17 officers, 400 enlisted men and 300 horses and mules.

The steamship loaded today at Texas City and put to sea shortly after 2 o'clock. She is due at Vera Cruz Saturday.

CARRANZA ACCEPTS MEDIATION TERMS

Peace Program is Broadening to Embrace Entire Mexican Situation.—Transport Morro Castle Lands Portsmouth Marines at Vera Cruz

Washington, April 30.—General Venustiano Carranza, head of the Mexican Constitutionalists, yesterday notified the Latin-American intermediaries of his acceptance of the principles of mediation in the difficulty between the United States and Mexico. He expressed willingness to confer on the subject.

This announcement was made by Secretary Bryan upon being informed by the three South American envoys. The introduction of General Carranza and the Constitutionalists cause into the negotiations broadens the peace program to an effort to encompass the entire Mexican situation. It is understood that the appeal for an armistice, which has already been submitted to the United States, and General Huerta's efforts, now will be presented to General Carranza.

The mediators undoubtedly expect both sides to accept the armistice proposals. A separate proposal for an armistice as between Huerta and Carranza will also be made and with its acceptance all the warring elements throughout Mexico as well as the American forces would maintain a military status quo.

The American government in its formal reply to the armistice proposal will expressly stipulate that any not towards Americans will be regarded as an infraction of the armistice.

The South American envoys were in session throughout the day at the Argentine legation. They suspended their night session, up to the time of their adjournment they had progressed steadily on their plans, and for saw a definite statement within the next few days of their contemplated action. During the evening the envoys individually conferred with their colleagues in the diplomatic corps from Central and South America to lay before them what had been done and discuss the general situation.

This emphasized what the mediators have been seeking—a purely American settlement of a crisis which affects the political integrity of all Spanish America. The patriotic unity of all Mexico and all Spanish America, who expected to give a significant evidence to the world at large and particularly to Europe of what the true American republics could do for the tranquility of the western hemisphere at a time of supreme crisis.

Word of General Carranza's acceptance of the tender of good offices came directly to the three South American envoys, who informed Secretary Bryan.

It had been generally supposed that the intermediaries would confine their efforts to a settlement of the differences arising between the United States and the Huerta government as a result of the arrest of the American marines at Tampico and the seizure of Vera Cruz.

But it developed that while they were prepared to concentrate their attention on averting hostilities between General Huerta and the United States, the envoys were quietly trying to include in the scope of their mediation the Constitutionalists, so that all elements might be brought into harmony for a pacific settlement. In this connection it was recalled that the American governments rely on the tender of good offices made this significant statement.

"This government hopes most earnestly that you may find those who speak for the several elements of the Mexican people willing and ready to discuss terms of satisfactory and therefore permanent settlement."

Wilson is Pleased

President Wilson and Secretary Bryan were pleased at the entry of General Carranza and the Constitutionalists into the peace plans.

The American government tonight had not yet made formal reply to the first proposal of the intermediaries for an armistice, but it is understood that one will be made within the next 24 hours.

In formulating an agreement to suspend hostilities, the American government, however, will stipulate that the Americans in interior points of Mexico are to be afforded every protection.

It is suggested in some quarters that the question of eliminating Huerta need not be raised by the U. S. In any of its proposals, but that it may be regarded as a question between the Huerta and the Carranza elements.

Vera Cruz, April 29.—No American troops were landed from the transport Morro Castle, with 900 marines aboard, arrived here early this morning.

Four more torpedo boat destroyers and one transport also have come into port. The Morro Castle left Philadelphia April 23.

The transport Hancock left here at 8 a. m. for Puerto Mexico, to receive on board the refugees expected from Mexico City. No more refugee trains are expected at Vera Cruz.

Washington, April 29.—An armistice in the difficulties between the United States and Mexico has been asked by the Government and Gen. Huerta by the South American envoys who have undertaken to avert war through mediation.

Ambassador Du Gama of Brazil, notified Sec. Bryan today that this had what you consider proper wear from your Corset? Do all parts wear evenly, or does it wear in spots?

Wear a WARNER'S Rust-Proof Corset and be satisfied. It wears out all over at once, but then only after long, hard wear.

The Cloth is soft but very strong, admirably adapted to corsets; the Stitching is accurately done on modern machines; the Seams are strong and straight; all Boning is double—two thin strips give twice the flexibility and greater strength than possible with any single steel.

But above all the styles are accurate, comfortable and fashionable. The Warner designers are constantly in touch with the best and most advanced modes—European and Domestic.

Sheridan's Royal "Bag"

No many comparisons of Richard Stanley Sheridan's Royal Bag to the dramatic in an encounter of wit. The royal dukes in the following story were more courageous, but not more successful, than most of the play-wright's friends.

Two royal dukes, friends of Sheridan, were walking in St. James' street when they happened to meet the dramatist.

"I say Sherry," said one of the dukes, "We have just been discussing whether you are a greater fool or a greater wit. What is your own opinion my boy?"

Sheridan smiled, took each by the arm and instantly replied:

HARBOR DAY PROCLAMATION.

State of New Hampshire.

Every traveler through our villages of a hundred or more years' growth has blessed our forefathers for planting these magnificent elms which he sees along the highways. Shall we not do as much for posterity, and at the same time mendicants within our borders the right spirit toward conservation and get thoroughly in touch with the great outdoors? I do hereby appoint Saturday, May 2, 1914, as Harbor Day.

Let each citizen of New Hampshire on that day do something in the way of adornment of the houses and schools and highways, and we shall each and every one realize we are happier for each labor. We shall raise the standard of our ideals and it will be reflected in our daily lives. Let us plant a few trees about our homes, along our highways, or around some public building, or reforest an acre of poor land by setting out plums which may be obtained of the State Forester. Let us teach the children to plant trees which may be a joy to them as they grow old and to their descendants in years to come.

Given at the Council Chamber in Concord, this 19th day of March, one thousand nine hundred and fourteen, and of the Independence of the United States the one hundred and thirty-eighth.

SAMUEL D. PELKIER,

Governor.

By His Excellency the Governor, with the advice of the Council.

Some Luxuries of New York Flats That Amaze Britishers

Five thousand pounds per annum in general thousands more than most people could pay as rent for a flat, yet that is the amount demanded for some flats on Upper 5th avenue, New York. The land there is worth 20 pounds per square foot, yet this alone does not regulate the enormous rent for the flats contain twenty-five rooms, comprise a whole floor and are fitted with every known device to render life safe and comfortable.

The entrance is of such simplicity that a casual observer would wonder where the value for 5,000 pounds came in. The walls are a pinkish cream marble, and so are the floors, though covered with heavy red pile carpet.

One of the rooms is a miniature reproduction of the famous Long Gallery at Haddon Hall. Even the lovely plaster work of the ceiling has been reduced to scale. The room is finished in English oak paneling.

Perhaps the most unusual feature of these flats is the "hardware" every bit of which was gold plated before being placed in position. "Hardware" in this connection means the metal parts of door handles, key plates, hinges, brackets, window fasteners and so on. Gold does not tarnish and the fixtures therefore need only a flannel rub with a piece of dry leather to be kept perfectly bright. No polish is necessary and the woodwork surrounding the metal consequently does not get discolored. In the dining room silver plating on white metal is used instead of gold.

Another device for which the millionaire tenant pays is fitted to the windows. Ever since eucalyptus windows were invented they have, as the builders say, "leaked air." The windows of these sumptuous flats are the exception. When the tenant wants air he moves a gold-plated lever and the whole window moves up an inch and gets clear of the window sill.

The dining room is about twenty-one by twenty-five feet, a perfect example of a seventeenth century Adams room. Nine coats of palm have been spread over the walls with as much attention as is devoted to the painting of a motor body. But while the motor car is brought to the highest possible grade, these flat walls are left with a soft, silky finish. White and gray is the color scheme of the room.

Sheridan's Royal "Bag"

No many comparisons of Richard Stanley Sheridan's Royal Bag to the dramatic in an encounter of wit. The royal dukes in the following story were more courageous, but not more successful, than most of the play-wright's friends.

NO HOPES FOR 187 MINERS STILL ENTOMBED

Beckley, W. Va., April 29.—Plumes and great clouds of smoke pouring from Mine No. 5, and Mine No. 6 of the New River Collieries Company today drove back heroic rescuers and all hope was abandoned of rescuing any of the 187 miners still entombed there as a result of the explosion that occurred yesterday afternoon. All are believed to be dead.

A number of explosions were heard during the night, indicating that "gas pockets" had been ignited by the fire that broke out soon after the explosion. One hundred and seventy-seven of the men given up for dead are in Mine No. 5. Ten are trapped in mine No. 6 from which 11 bodies have been recovered.

ANGORA GOAT RAISING PROFITABLE IN AMERICA

Refusal of Turkey and South Africa to Permit Exports of Breeding Stock, No Longer a Menace to Growers Here.

Washington, D. C., April 29.—The raising of Angora goats in the United States is now a demonstrated success according to a report just published by the United States Department of Agriculture under the title, "The Angora Goat," Farmers Bulletin 573. The industry, says the bulletin, is indeed well established here that grows and is not inconvenienced by the action of South Africa in prohibiting the exportation of Angoras, for the quantity of good blood in this country is already sufficient to meet all requirements. In the opinion of experts the best American fleeces now equal any grown in South Africa or Asia Minor, the original home of the Angora.

Although nearly every state in the Union now possesses its flocks the Southwest and the Northwest are especially well adapted to the industry. In particular the large areas recently logged off in the northwest. There the Angora not only thrives himself but helps to clear away the brush which is allowed to grow unchecked, might easily become a dangerous fire trap. Thus it is often said that the Angora works and pays for its board at the same time.

It is paying more and more, for the value of the fleece or mohair is increasing steadily. Formerly the use of mohair depended so largely upon the prevailing fashion that its price varied widely from year to year. This condition, however, is rapidly changing as new uses for mohair are continually found, from automobile coils and baby carriages to dress goods and curled false hair, and today the grower is assured of a reasonably steady market. The price of coarse fleeces bringing on an average from 42 to 55 cents a pound. The weight of a fleece has a very wide range but in 1909 the average for Oregon was found to be 3.7 pounds and for Texas 1.85. On account of the greater heat, however, and the damage of shedding Angoras in the southwest are frequently shorn twice a year—a fact which must be taken into consideration in all calculations.

This practice of clipping twice a year is in many ways a drawback to the industry since it tends to lower the average grade of American mohair. Mohair as good as any, can be and is grown in this country but the average quality is not today considered to be as good as the foreign. About 2,000,000 pounds are annually imported. Ordinarily this is blended and spun with the domestic product. Six flocks is the shortest length of fleece usually desired and, because of shearing twice a year, much Texas and New Mexico mohair falls below this standard. Where the fleece is allowed to grow for twelve months, the average length is 10 inches and in the best flocks it is not unusual to get 15 to 20 inches. Roman, the sweetest shorn back of the El Paso show in 1910, is an example of what is possible. His fleece weighed 18 pounds, measured 20 5/4 inches in length and sold for $115. Such fleece is not of course the product of ordinary commercial conditions. It implies a considerable amount of care and personal attention.

The birth rate is approximately 65 per cent but in well managed flocks this has risen on occasions as high as 120 per cent. Since the kids are not hardy, it is obvious that this means skill and industry during the breeding season. The best methods of carrying ing for the flock at this time are discussed in some detail in the new bulletin. Otherwise the management of Angoras does not differ greatly from that of sheep.

While the Angora goat needs attention it is adaptable and as far as temperature is concerned should flourish in any part of the United States. In Montana the flocks face the heavy snowfalls with equanimity as long as a dry place is provided for them at night and through the heat in the southwest frequently makes it necessary to shear twice a year in order to prevent shedding. It does not otherwise affect the health of the flocks. Dampness, however, is more injurious than either cold or heat. High land is the native home of all goats and they invariably seek it when left to themselves. Pure water is also an essential.

Otherwise the Angora is not particular. It will feed with cattle and sheep, and though in some danger of being kicked with horses of rough pasture and is particularly happy when cleaning up brush land. There is one instance of a flock of 400 being allowed free grazing in a California forest reserve in order to keep the strips of cleared land, known as fire breaks, free from weeds and vegetation. Settlers in the northwest find the Angora most serviceable in browsing off the brush on their new lands, and one interurban railway company purchased a flock to keep its right of way clear and attractive. On a very rough land the danger of injury to the flocks must, however, be kept in mind.

As has already been said, the Angora can be bred sufficiently pure for practical purposes from the stock already in this country and there is no need of further importations for breeding purposes. Some years ago, however, this was not believed to be the case and in 1881 the Sultan of Turkey endeavored to preserve for his dominions the monopoly of the mohair trade by prohibiting the exportation of the live animal. His example was followed by South Africa, but it was too late. Some of the best blood was already in America, and today other countries are buying of us, flocks having been shipped recently to Brazil, and the Argentine.

Various associations have already been formed for the development of the industry in this country and the quantity of the animal product is increasing rapidly. In 1913 it is estimated that 5,000,000 pounds of mohair were grown in the United States. Further details of the management and care of flocks are to be found in Farmers Bulletin 573, "The Angora Goat," which will be sent free on application to the Department of Agriculture.

Perhaps the most eager to leave is Mrs. Olive Henshaw whose husband is a naval officer now fighting in Mexican waters.

COMB SAGE TEA IN HAIR TO DARKEN IT

Grandma Kept Her Locks Dark, Glossy, Thick With a Mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur

The old time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a gown, even color, which is quite sensible as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays though we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the messy dishing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover that it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustrous appearance of abundance, which is so attractive, besides preventing dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.

NEW SELLING IDEAS

Original merchandizing ideas, properly hitched up to the general sales scheme, bring results.

The manager of a ten cent store in the South saw that the majority of his customers were women. Women are good buyers but he knew that the store's business could be increased if the men could be induced to come in and look around. He was convinced that there was a general belief that a ten cent store is essentially a woman's store. The manager made it his prime object to overcome this notion.

He advertised a men only week of sales and employed salesmen to take the place of the salesgirls, who were given a week's vacation on pay. The windows were filled with articles to attract the attention of men. The prices were sufficiently low to induce purchasers to come inside the store. One week served to popularize the store with the men. There were hundreds of new customers who remained even after the old routine was adopted.

A shoe dealer in a small Illinois city believes that the confidence of the buying public is the best possible asset for a retail business. He has adopted a successful plan to gain this confidence.

Twice yearly he publishes in the advertising columns of the city's news papers what he calls his confidential report. He cites in this statement the total amount of sales for the period covered, the cost of the goods sold the carrying expense, the selling cost, the loss through bad accounts, etc. In short the statement is a thorough analysis of the business from an inside point of view. The statements prove surprising to an average reader because of the low percentage of net profit the dealer makes, considering his investment. The statements coupled with a general frankness of treatment from the dealers employees, wins many customers for the store—a point the merchant makes plain in his confidential statements.

A Detroit restaurant keeper came to know that many of his regular customers were formerly country boys. In order to take them back to their boyhood days he prepared a country score lunch. The bill of fare included canned oysters, sardines, cheeses and crackers, mixed pickles, baked beans and many of the other foods served across country store counters. The idea proved a popular with his regular customers that it was made a weekly feature and advertised in the newspapers. He is compelled to turn patronage away on country store day. —New York Sun.

NEW HAMPSHIRE COLLEGE NOTES

New Hampshire College, Durham N. H., April 29.—President Fairchild addressed the students today at chapel and urged them to make an effort to be always alive to what is going on in the world.

He took as subjects for his remarks three men: Senator Lodge, Comte Mack, Nikola Tesla. He to Senator Lodge, President Fairchild called attention to his recent remarkable speech in the Senate in defense of the Panama Canal toll repeal measure to illustrate the growth of an international ethical sense. He used Comte Mack to point out that that great baseball manager's wonderful success lay in his own words, attributable to clean living and good thinking. In conclusion Dr. Fairchild spoke of President Fairchild's achievements and commended the undergraduates on the probability that they would live to enjoy them and pointed out that this progress was bought at the cost of lives of individual effort.

President Fairchild has written to the principals of the New Hampshire high schools and academies, sending them a list of the seniors in the Arts and Science course who wish to teach school upon graduation. The list was made out by the Arts and Science committee and in an attempt to help both the student and the secondary school.

The list includes 13 men designated by number only. A brief sketch of the man's educational preparation is given and a list of positions held if any work had been done outside of school. If any of the men are needed by the schools, they can write telling what number they would like to investigate and the man and the school can be put into communication.

THE RED ROSE

Musical Comedy at the Portsmouth Theatre.

The first play for some weeks here was presented on Wednesday evening at the Portsmouth Theatre. A musical comedy entitled "The Red Rose" and it pleased a good sized audience. The piece is well staged and the company well costumed, and the cast a good one.

Miss Lottie Kendon, who had the lead, sings well and she had the song hit of the piece, "Queen of Vanity Fair." Her partner, who has the part of Andre, has a very fine tenor voice and his singing was much enjoyed. L. A. Banou was another striking voice. Dan Zeigler as the Englishman, had a clever dance, and his songs were all good. The musical comedy was especially good and especially in the song "Men, Men, Men."

Editorial.....28 | Business.....37

Portsmouth, N. H., Thursday, April 30, 1914.

Plant Trees.

The time of year for tree planting is at hand and it brings to many an important duty and a privilege that should be esteemed. There is hardly any other work that yields such large returns as that done in the planting of trees. To those interested in such things the pleasure afforded compensates for the labor expended, and the comfort and profit derived from the trees in later years are a source of never-failing satisfaction.

It seems like a small thing to plant a tree, and it is, but the results are by no means small. Most trees are long-lived and remain to yield their fruits and cast their grateful shade for years after the hands that plant them cease from their labors. The man who plants trees not only works for himself, but performs an invaluable service to future generations, for they live to bless those who come after him long after his earthly activities have ceased forever.

There is hardly a home which has not room for another tree or another shrub, and at this time of the year it is well to fill in the vacant spaces. While, comparatively, a tree is a thing of slow growth, those who have done this sort of work realize how soon a young tree begins to make a showing and to fill its proper place in the world of beauty and utility. And there are few pleasures to be drawn from the vegetable kingdom greater than that of watching from year to year the expansion of a handsome shade or fruit tree.

And while owners of homes should neglect no opportunity to enhance the beauty and value of their premises by planting trees where suitable space invites, communities should never fail to give proper attention to this matter in the public parks and squares and along the highways. In all large communities are many who do not and can not own their homes, but they can enjoy the trees in the streets and other public places, which should be numerous and well cared for. A neglected tree is as discreditable as a shabby suit of clothes. Trees need proper pruning and care to be what they should be, and the character of a community can be accurately judged by the condition of the trees in its public places and about the homes of the people.

Plant trees—and then take care of them.

The Clean-Up Movement.

Join the local clean-up campaign that this paper has started in Portsmouth. It costs you nothing to become a member. Just go ahead and brush up your buildings, clean up your back yards, cellars, etc. Do your part to make old Portsmouth more attractive. Stand by the President.

Stand by the President in his efforts to settle the Mexican trouble is the duty of every honest and law-abiding citizen. No doubt there are many who think that they could do better, but Mr. Wilson is the man on the job and is in possession of all the facts and let's all be true Americans and give him hearty support.

To Free the Toll Bridges.

We must not let the war talk interfere with the freeing of the Portsmouth toll bridges. It is none too early to plan to attend the hearing on May 19th. Make a note of this date on your calendar.

It is announced that it would cost $1,250,000 to equip the New York National Guard with horses and mules for active service, and there would also be other heavy expenses in placing the men in the field. And New York, though large, is only one state. It is a costly proposition that is staring Uncle Sam in the face.

The taxation committee of the Massachusetts legislature has done one good thing by granting a woman petitioner for a law for the taxing of bachelors leave to withdraw. More such "permits" should be issued by legislators in all parts of the country.

The Massachusetts suffragists are to have a big parade in Boston May 2, and most of the billboards in the city and vicinity are being plastered with glaring announcements of the event. Will this serve to stimulate the anti-billboard crusade?

Some people consider Villa "the man of the hour," while others regard him merely as a man of an hour. And it may take some time to determine who is right.

The Panama canal zone has been placed on a war footing by Colonel Goethals, the governor. These be stirring times.

FEAR STEAMER IS LOST WITH ALL ON BOARD

Pick Up Wreckage From Lake Superior Vessel After Big Storm.

Duluth, Minn., April 29.—That the steamer Benjamin Noble, her crew of twenty or more, and a large cargo of railroad iron, were swallowed up in storm-swept Lake Superior last night was made almost certain today when the life saving crew picked up wreckage from the steamer off Minnesota Point, Duluth.

The general belief is that the steamer missed the Duluth entrance, struck the point and foundered in deep water.

Up to this evening no bodies had come ashore. Reports by excited people that bodies had been found, proved incorrect. While the Noble was trying to make the harbor the South light on the Duluth entry pier went out. No blame is attached by mariners to the lighthouse crew. If the fault lies anywhere vessel men say, it is with the antiquated equipment of the lighthouse department.

Several steamers have not yet reported.

B. & M. TRAINMEN HAVE COMPLAINT

Hear Officials Will Start a New Plan of Running Summer Schedule.

The Boston and Maine engineers and firemen and trainmen are getting ready to have a mixup with the company unless, there is some change in the outlook as the men understand it. The men have heard that the management is going to try a new plan of operating trains this summer whereby the same method that has been in vogue for some time with respect to freight service. That is to run as few regular trains as possible, putting in extra whenever traffic conditions make it necessary.

There are certain men who by reason of their seniority in rank and service have a right to pick out regular trains and hold them against all comers. The men younger in the service have come in under what is known as the spare schedule choosing their numbers and waiting to be called.

As the plan now is being talked of, there will be very few regular trains, the fewest that can be handled, leaving it to double up and run sections whenever there is a rush. In times past there have been occasions when the regular trains have run so light that the wages of the crew were barely paid out of the train revenue, but as the trains were on the regular list and the men had regularly drawn their money they had to be kept on and run even if the company was money out all the time.

The proposed schedule will be run only the minimum number of regular trains with a sort of flying squadron of extras to be put on Saturdays and Mondays and on great and special occasions, etc., but with the privilege of having them off when there is no business.

The employees claim that this is simply a move on the part of the company to "trim" them. The company will pay high wages when it pays any but by cutting off more than half the trains it will cut out that number of men and will keep them loafing around to get spare runs whenever there are extras to run.

The men and the company officials are holding conferences this week but up to date there is very little that has reached the outside because of the fact that the officials and the employees.

CURRENT OPINION

Feminism and Masculine Co-operation Important to Best Development of Race.

A woman should tell a man everything that has been in her life before she marries him. If he is willing and eager to take her in spite of her mistakes, her sins, then he is a real man and will make a real husband.

Feminism and masculinism are equally important to the best development of the race. But what is even more important is co-operation between the two.

A woman thinks in terms of humanity. A man thinks in terms of dollars and cents. Life is the greatest motive force for women. Organization and intellect are the motive forces of the man.

Just because your husband forgot to bring you a bunch of violets on your wedding anniversary is no reason why you should wallow in a slough of sentimentality. Make sentiment serve you instead of weighing you down.

Woman will gradually return to the happy days when she was the perfect homemaker, grooming her husband for the battle of life and sending him forth in condition to win for their family and their home.—By Mrs. Elizabeth Towne, Author.

es are working at cross purposes, the officials saying that they are not yet ready to make public their precise schedule for the summer and that until they are, they are not willing to tell just how many or what employees will be set back from the regular runs to spare work.

This play has been coached throughout by Mr. George McPheters, a well known New Hampshire college man, and an alumnus of the school.

The most interesting feature of the affair is that the female parts are all taken by boys, and this fact should be a great drawing card for the show. The support which the school has given is highly appreciated by the boys in charge.

POLICE NEWS.

There was no session of the district court today.

On complaint of a Pleasant street grocer, Officer Shannon on Wednesday arrested a woman who had been obtaining goods under false pretenses. She secured $5.00 worth of groceries on the name of her husband, who she claimed was in the navy. It was later discovered that she gave a wrong name and was feeding another family on the groceries she had secured on the promise that her husband would send a check in payment for the same. When arrested she stated that the family she helped was starving. This family told the police they did not ask any aid from the woman and she told them she paid for the goods. Her husband made a settlement with the grocer and she was released.

AMATEURS SCORE A SUCCESS

Second Night's Performance Under Auspices of Equal Suffrage League Attracts Large Audience

The Portsmouth Equal Suffrage League repeated their successful entertainment at Association Hall with a much larger audience than the first evening, the hall being taxed to capacity.

The Japanese Love-Lyric in one act, entitled "An Idyl of Yoddo" was presented in the same pretty way as the first performance, which was given in detail in Wednesday's issue of the Herald.

Miss Priscilla Heffenger scored a great success in her solo dances, and was forced to give several encores amid rounds of applause. She gave several new dances which were not presented the first evening, and appeared in several changes of costume. Her art is wonderfully aesthetic and graceful, her costume delightful and her spirit bewitching. Her grace and suppleness is delicious and exquisite, and her work of a perfectly professional nature.

The play, "Barbara," a comedy in one act, was fairly interpreted by a most suitable cast.

The resume of the plot is as follows: Barbara, the dressmaker, played by Mrs. Charles Conard, was on a boat which was shipwrecked when she was only a child, when her parents were drowned, and she was picked up by another ship and cared for by a poor but kind hearted old sailor.

Upon reaching maturity, Barbara decided to be a dressmaker and adopted her dearest girl friend, Lillie Lealand, impersonated by Mrs. P. G. White, as her sister, and the two girls lived very happily together.

Cecil Norton, a poor young author, excellently interpreted by Lieut. Miller, was in love with Lillie, but failed to understand her as she ignored him by her designing wiles, was constantly insulting him and made it very disagreeable for him whenever he came to see her. As this was just Lillie's way of wooing, Cecil thought that he was ill-used. With the encouragement of Barbara, who settled all the petty quarrels, Cecil kept up courage, and after the amusing scene between Barbara and Cecil, when she told him to task Lillie to marry him to make him self interesting, entertaining and a good conversationalist, and then the scenes between Lillie and himself would not be so painfully tame. However, after assured that Lillie loved him Cecil then began to worry about his fortune which was almost nothing, and feared that he could not afford to provide for a wife. She too, was most impatient to be married and was most amusing in her petulant moods.

By permission, finely acted by Archibald Playman, an old country doctor, announced his arrival and stated the object of his visit which was to deliver a legacy to Cecil, which an uncle had left him, provided his sister was not living. During the interview Cecil found out that Barbara was her own brother, and so as to let Lillie and Cecil be happily married and enjoy the luxuries that they could now afford.

The stage setting was that of an artistic living room, arranged with antique furniture, the quaint mirror, pictures and tapestry, the colonial dishes and the rock fireplace. Upon the top of the china closet was the beautiful silver chocolate pot, pitcher and mugs, which are heirlooms in the possession of Mrs. Heffenger.

Perhaps it would not be out of place to mention the work of Mrs. P. G. White, the charming soprano who appeared in a dainty costume of Kate Greenaway muslin, with round Dutch neck and elbow sleeves. Her costume was simply itself, with not an extra frill or ruffle, not a superfluous lace or ribbon. Her acting was unaffected simplicity in her veriest movements and her unadorned gestures held the audience enthralled to delight.

The plot of the story, which pleased by its unconscious ingenueness was finely produced by the local talent of the local circle.

The orchestra rendered several selections and the affair was pronounced a great success.

VINCENT ASTOR TAKES BRIDE

Weds Helen Huntington at Staatsburg Home at High Noon Today.

Staatsburg, N. Y. April 30.—William Vincent Astor, head of the family established in America a century and a quarter ago, by John Jacob Astor, the German fur trader, and perhaps the wealthiest young man in the world, was quietly married here at noon today to Miss Helen Dinsmore Huntington, Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Huntington, at the home of the bride's parents. Since the tragic death of his father, who went down the Titanic, made him master of the great fortune long associated with the Astor name, Vincent Astor has gained a prominence not altogether due to his wealth. His interest in philanthropy and social betterment has kept his name before the public and his marriage to a girl whom he has known since childhood gives more than a touch of romance to the Union.

Miss Huntington's attendants were her young sister, Alice, as maid of honor, and Alice Muriel Astor, sister of the bridegroom, and Margaret Dows, daughter of Tracy Dows, a neighbor of the Huntingtons. Miss Astor and Miss Dows are children about ten years of age. Mr. Astor's best man was Hermann Oelrichs of New York, a student at the Columbia Law School. There was no usher.

The Episcopal marriage service was read by the Rev. Charles A. Dinsmore, rector of St. Margaret's church. After the ceremony there was a wedding breakfast.

Miss Huntington's only brother, a student at St. Paul's school in Concord, N. H., is home for the wedding.

The bride is the eldest child of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Huntington and descendant of Samuel Huntington of Norwich, Conn., a signer of the Declaration of Independence. In 1859 this branch of the family left New England and settled in Virginia and later moved to Kentucky, whence came Miss Huntington's father to make his home in Rhinebeck. Two of her ancestors on the Huntington side were justices of the United States supreme court. Her grandfather on her mother's side was Alvin Adams, founder of the Adams Express Company. Her maternal grandfather was the late William B. Dinsmore, whose widow was one of the wedding guests. The Dinsmore family came from Scotland early in the 18th century and settled in New England.

Mrs. Astor is fond of outdoor sports and has spent most of her life in the country.

Vincent Astor will be 23 on the 16th of next November.

FEDERAL TROOPS IN MINE DISTRICT

Denver, Colo., April 29.—Violence in the strike zones of Colorado came to an end, shortly after midnight when a downpour of rain drove to cover strikers who were attacking the Western mine near Walsenburg, the only point in Colorado where actual violence obtained, and today dawned with the prospect of indefinite peace between the warring industrial factions. Federal troops from Fort Lupton, Kan., were expected to reach the state before night. The soldiers from Wyoming went to Canon City and those from Kansas probably will go to Trinidad.

The situation in the northern district became quiet yesterday when the strikers ran out of ammunition. In official circles here and among the union leaders there was an expression of confidence in the Federal troops' ability to control the situation. Governor Ammons, however, reiterated his determination not to withdraw any of the state troops from the mines which will not be amply protected by the Federal soldiers.

President Wilson's proclamation yesterday by virtue of which the Federal troops were ordered into Colorado, gives the strikers "gunmen" and others until tomorrow to return to their various abodes peacefully and to cease all acts of lawlessness.

Governor Ammons expressed great relief upon the arrival of the Federal troops.

Party leaders conferred here today relative to the organization of the special session of legislature, which convenes May 4, to act upon the strike situation, its control and remedy.

envoys formally requests each Government to declare an armistice. It was pointed out by officials here that, in all probability, the United States would accept the proposal, notwithstanding the fact that this Government has not recognized that a state of war in Mexico exists, insofar as the operations of the United States are concerned.

Despite this fact, it was believed that the Washington Government would not put any barrier in the path of the progress of mediation, particularly at such an early stage of the negotiations. Officials here also believe that Carranza would accept the first proposal.

No Reference to Constitutionalists.
The proposal for an armistice, it was also learned, does not include any reference to the Constitutionalists in Mexico, the United States and Huerta merely being called upon to cease active operations pending further mediation proposals. Consideration of the Constitutionalists' position, it was said, probably would be involved in the next step to be taken after an armistice has been agreed to by the principals to the present difficulties.

Under the armistice, in accordance with international proceedings, neither the Huerta Government nor the United States would pause in preparations for war. Plans for possible conflict would proceed, but the armistice would prohibit actual hostilities in the field and any escalation of military movement by either side. In Mexico people would be permitted to go where they pleased, unmolested. It would simply establish a truce.

Keen Interest in Berlin Report.
Officials expressed keen interest in unofficial reports from Berlin that the mediators had asked European Powers to use influence on President Wilson that would prevent this Government making conditions of settlement, as mediation progresses, which would make impossible the success of the effort to bring about peace. At the State Department it was stated that nothing was known of this action on the part of the envoys.

Following his visit to Sec. Bryan, Ambassador de Gama returned to the Argentine Legation, where the envoys resumed their conference. When this Government would make answer to the armistice proposals was not indicated at that time.

Americans Allowed to Go.
Vera Cruz, April 29.—Commander Tweddle of the British cruiser Essex, who went to Mexico City several days ago to intercede for foreigners held in the capital, returned here late yesterday and reported that his mission had been successful.

President Huerta, Minister of War Blanco and Foreign Minister Pardo Rojas assured Tweddle that they would release all American prisoners and that all Americans desiring to do so might leave via Puerto Mexico, but that the trains on which they would go would not be provided with escorts.

The train on which Commander Tweddle came back to Vera Cruz picked up 100 American refugees from various interior points, who were assembled at Soledad.

Pitiable Sight of Refugees.
These refugees, who came from Tlaxcala, Cordoba and Orizaba, presented a pitiable spectacle, and were worn, dirty and tired from their frightful experiences. Women with babies in their arms and young girls carrying heavy bundles, containing all that remained of their earthly possessions, wearily trudged with the other refugees from the station here, in charge of agents from the American consulate.

Many of the refugees are destitute, and these were lodged aboard the rescue steamer last night.

Commander Tweddle did not find it easy to convince Gen. Huerta regarding the release of Americans, and Sir Lionel Chaden, the British Minister, was called into the conference. Mr. Chaden also visited Foreign Minister Pardo y Rojas, and it was easily noticeable, when he left the Foreign Office, that he was annoyed.

"No Reason" to Escort Refugees.
Gen. Huerta declared there was no reason for placing an escort on the refugee trains, and, anyway, he did not care to assume responsibility of the safety of passengers.

It was planned according to Commander Tweddle, to start three trains from Mexico City last night. It was estimated by Gen. Huerta that these trains, which were to be operated by Britishmen, would be able to take out all Americans and other foreigners who wished to go. This, however, is regarded here as doubtful, since there has been growing evidence that Americans are not the only ones anxious to escape from the capital.

Keen Disappointment Felt.
Keen disappointment was displayed here by the wives of the men yet in the capital, and other members of broken families on learning that to join them the missing ones would be compelled to make a long and dangerous journey. The fact that those arrested had been released was only slight assurance to those who knew that the refugees now must pass through a region in which so many have been massacred and taken northward to Cordoba and Orizaba.

It is regarded as unlikely that Gen. Huerta, even if determined to stop arresting Americans, will be able to get in touch with all the little leaders in the South and hold them off unarmored trains.

Commander Tweddle brings assurances that the capital is quiet and that immediate danger from mobs appears gone.

Medina Colonists at Vera Cruz.
Sixty-three members of the Medina colony in the State of Oaxaca were among the refugees who arrived here. They were held two days in Cordoba, where they were well treated except for the fact that they were obliged to sleep on the floors of the barracks. They were relieved of guns, but not of the scanty belongings which they were able to bring with them.

J. W. Elliott, a locomotive engineer, was in Tlaxcala when news of the occupation of Vera Cruz reached him. With his wife and children he started for Cordoba, under guard of Mexican soldiers. Arrived there, the guards said they were hungry and demanded 50 pesos (about $25) on the threat to turn the Elliott family over to a howling mob which surrounded the station and filled the streets.

Twice Saved from Lynching Mobs.
The money was paid and Elliott and his family were marched through the streets for more than a mile, hounded all the way to the barracks by the mob. For six days they were kept in the barracks, during the first two of which crowds surrounded the place, howling for their lives.

On two occasions, some of the mob forced their way into the barracks, and, had it not been for the efforts of the colonel and two other officers, Elliott and his family undoubtedly would have been killed. Toward the end of their stay the demonstrations ceased, to a large extent.

Manager Boyd of the Motocorona hacienda, when he arrived at Cordoba was forced by the Federal guard to pay 1000 pesos for protection through the streets to the jail.

Circulars Urged "Kill the Gringos"
Circulars containing the words "Kill the Gringos" and urging the people to rise and massacre the prisoners were posted about Cordoba. The circulars also declared that the Americans were murdering women and children.

At Paso del Macho, which is now

QUIT MEAT WHEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a Glass of Salts Before Breakfast If Your Back, Hips or Bladder is Troubling You

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well known authority. Meat forms an acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of stinging, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Epsom Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with alkali and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is responsive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent alkali water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

The headquarters of Gen. Minas, slouches were thrown at the train as it passed and many car windows were broken. Paso del Macho is some 50 miles from the capital.

It is estimated that the three relief trains which were to leave the capital last night would carry about 800 refugees.

Arrival of 113 Cordoba Refugees.
It required much use of the telegraph to the capital before Gen. Minas could be induced to let Commander Tweddle take the 113 refugees gathered at Soledad into Vera Cruz.

While en route to Vera Cruz the party saw Gen. Navarro with 48 cars of soldiers and other detachments, including 600 men from the transport Progress, which was turned back from entering the port of Vera Cruz, by the American Navy, on the second day of the fighting.

The total number of Americans who had been imprisoned in Cordoba and who were brought here yesterday was 113. Among them were those who, earlier yesterday, had been reported as dead.

From Mexico City comes the report that one American was killed by a mob in front of the Hotel Isabel a few days ago. His name is not known here.

Train Repeatedly Looted.
E. W. Lehner, a ranch manager from Tlaxcala, whose home is in Oaxaca, and who was on his way to Vera Cruz, for a visit, not knowing of the developments here, was picked up at Tlaxcala by Federal soldiers.

"I was placed with 10 others in a train, which was left standing overnight, surrounded by a mob which continually threatened to attack us," he said. "The guards ate up everything available on the train, compelling us to go hungry. At every station up to Cordoba, on the following day, similar crowds looted the train and threatened us."

"While being taken through the streets of Cordoba a squad of young volunteers, who had just been presented with a flag swept down upon us and tried to run us down. This happened at the corner when the Municipal Palace is located, or otherwise we would not have escaped as well as we did. As I was I was carried over the head with a flagstaff and a man walking beside me was struck on the head with a stone and his scalp was badly cut."

Mexican Colonel Saved Them.
"It was due to the fine conduct of the Mexican colonel that we ever made the palace. He rushed from the door with a squad of police and soldiers and plunged into the crowd, scattering them."

"Once in the palace we were lodged upstairs in front of the Jefe Politico's office, but all night a mob continued to yell in the streets, and several times we thought they would break in and try to get us. This colonel and his men stood by us, though, with guns ready for business."

"Later we were put in the penitentiary, which is in the same building, and for six days we slept on the stone flagging. There were two women in the party, one with a little baby."

"Mexican Soldiers Would Have Finished Us."
"We were allowed to send out and buy blankets and managed to get enough to eat, such as it was."

"Monday we were placed on a train and brought down to Soledad. We spent that night on the tracks. There was one passenger coach left for us, and in this the women and children slept, the rest of us sleeping on the ground."

"About 11 Tuesday morning Tweddle's train arrived. The officers were not going to let us board it, but Tweddle refused to let the train go without us. When we arrived at the break in the tracks there were bunches of Mexican soldiers lying in the bushes, and they certainly would have finished us but for Tweddle and the protection of the British flag, which was carried ahead of us."

Puerto Mexico Route is Long.
Anxiety in Vera Cruz of those with friends and relatives in the interior has been greatly relieved by the news that the Mexican authorities are permitting Americans to come down to the coast. Today the American colony here, which is growing steadily, settled down to await news from Paso del Macho of the arrival of three train loads of refugees from Mexico City, which the Huerta officials promised Commander Tweddle of the British cruiser Essex would be despatched from the capital last night.

The route from the capital to Puerto Mexico is long and roundabout and it is not expected that the trains will reach the coast before next Friday. Rear Admiral Badger will have a vessel at Puerto Mexico to meet the refugees. He probably will not send a warship, as this might result in arousing anti-American feeling in a town which, up to the present time, has been quiet.

O'Shaughnessy "Waiting Orders"

Mr. O'Shaughnessy and Arnold Shandlin, the American Consul General at Mexico City, who came out with him, are still here awaiting orders. So far as is known, they have been given no intimation as to their probable instructions from Washington. This is construed here to mean that the State Department retains the hope of a satisfactory adjustment of the present difficulty, which would make it possible for these officers to return to Mexico City. Consequently their return to the United States now might be inexpedient.

Refugees Names Sent to Washington.

The release by Gen. Minas, the neutral commander outside of Vera Cruz of the hundred refugees who were brought in from Soledad yesterday by Commander Tweddle, clears the territory between Vera Cruz and Mexico City, on the direct line of communication, of all Americans with the exception of a few scattered families whose whereabouts are not known. Some may have made their way to the capital; others to coast ports, and some are supposed to be in hiding with friendly Mexican ranchmen.

Consul Canada's office is flooded with cablegrams inquiring for the safety of this or that person, as are the names of those who reach the coast and start for Galveston are received they are cabled to the State Department at Washington.

Perfect Freedom in Vera Cruz.

Rear Admiral Fletcher's experience last night in granting the population of Vera Cruz the fullest measure of liberty to move about the streets apparently proved completely successful outside of one or two shots fired in the outlying districts, which did no damage, the city was perfectly tranquil.

Brig. Gen. Funston's officers continued today their study of the city which they will undertake to police and protect after Friday of this week when the General assumes the title of Military Governor.

With the troops already here and on the way, and with the marines, other than the ships' guards, Gen. Funston will have close to 3000 men ashore, which his force is complete.

Zapata Offers to Aid Huerta.
Paris, April 29.—A dispatch to the Matin from Mexico City, dated Tuesday, says:

"President Huerta says he has no idea of retiring from the Presidency, and also that he never thought of treating with Rear Admiral Fletcher. "Zapata, with 15,000 adherents, offers to join a fight against the Americans. The city is calm. All manifestations have been prohibited. Nothing seems to indicate a state of war, but enlistments continue."

"The public services are beginning to run again, after a few days' interruption."

Japan Wouldn't Act for Huerta

Washington, April 29.—The Japanese Government, it has developed, was asked and declined to act for the Huerta Administration through its diplomatic representatives in Washington and its consuls in the United States, prior to Mexico's application to Spain to perform this mission, which was granted.

While the Japanese Embassy declines to confirm the report, it is known to be well founded, and to have given great satisfaction to President Wilson's Administration, as a significant expression of Japan's good will and friendliness toward this country.

The purpose of Japan's action is understood to have been a desire to preserve the strictest neutrality between the United States and Mexico, as outlined in the recent declaration in Tokyo of Count Okuma, the new Japanese Premier. The undertaking on the part of Japan to act in the interest of either party was felt to be open to the construction of being an expression of favoritism, which it was desired to avoid by an attitude of strict neutrality.

Among those informed of Huerta's first choice of Japan to represent Mexico in the United States, the move was construed as an attempt on his part to align one of the great world powers with his administration, and thus to accomplish a master stroke in diplomacy.

Powers Asked to Coerce Wilson

Berlin, April 29.—The South American mediators have approached the European Powers, the London Angler says, it was learned in diplomatic circles today, with the request that these Nations exert influence on President Wilson to have him make conditions which would render the success of the negotiations possible. The mediators especially desire, it

LAST LECTURE OF SEASON

Mrs. Morrill Hamlin Talks Interestingly on Mexico.

A very interesting lecture was given before the Grafton Club on Wednesday afternoon at Association Hall, by Mrs. Morrill Hamlin of Portland, it being the last number on the program of the club for this year.

Mrs. Hamlin first gave a resume of recent happenings of international importance, proving herself to be well fitted to speak on the subject of current events. She spoke particularly on the situation existing in England at this time in regard to Elster, also reviewing present political conditions in France and other nations of Europe.

The Mexican situation was taken up and described at great length and a clear explanation given of how the present trouble with Mexico came about and the necessity of intervention by the United States. While upholding President Wilson, Mrs. Hamlin criticized the senate somewhat for its procrastinating tendencies. She gave an interesting review of Mexican history, and was able to give an accurate description of General Huerta, from having talked with one who had had opportunity to observe this powerful and much feared man who is trying to rule over the Mexican people. She told how the three South American republics who had offered to use their good offices to bring about a peaceful settlement of the Mexican difficulty might wish to prevent a war between Mexico and the United States, clearly defining the meaning of the words, "good offices." The audience was most attentive and there was frequent applause during the address.
